

MEDIA HIGHLIGHT
Tuesday, February 4th, 2020

EDUCATION

SEED launches digital school transformation platform

To improve Nigeria's education system, Sustainable Education and Enterprise Development (SEED) has announced the launch of a digital platform powered by Sophia ERP for a groundbreaking school transformation programme. According to the Executive Director
Guardian

TEP Centre conducts Assessment in Borno State

The Education Partnership (TEP) Centre supported DAI and SNEPCo with the baseline assessment of four schools in Kaga and Konduga Local Government Areas of Borno state. The assessment was conducted using the quantitative method of a survey to provide statistical data on measurable indicators, and qualitative methods of observation and document review to collect more nuanced and contextual data.

Review of Nigeria's university curriculum in final stage –NUC

The National Universities Commission (NUC), is in the final stage of a draft review of Nigeria's university curriculum, according to the Executive Secretary of the commission, Prof. Abubakar Rasheed. Rasheed, speaking at a high-level interactive dialogue commemorating this year's International Day of Education at the United Nations Headquarters...TheNationOnline

BUSINESS

Africa's economy to rise to 3.9% in 2020–AfDB

The African Development Bank (AfDB) African has projected economic growth to rise from 3.4 per cent in 2019 to 3.9 per cent in 2020 and 4.1 per cent in 2021. The AfDB President, Dr Akinwumi Adesina
Vanquard

OTHERS

NCDC says no coronavirus in Nigeria

The Nigerian Centre for Disease Control (NCDC) has dispelled rumours of importation of the deadly coronavirus to Nigeria. In a statement yesterday in Abuja, NCDC noted that the individual in question returned from China last week and went for a routine medical test as requested by his employers.
...Guardian