

EDUCATION
	Educational group berths in Nigeria An educational non-profit organisation based in the United Kingdom (UK), Professors Without Borders (PROWIBO), is set to take its educational activities to the country having been to other African countries such as Uganda, Sierra Leone and Senegal. The Director and Co-founder ... TheNationOnline
	2020 UTME registration hitch-free, say candidates With two weeks into the registration exercise for 2020 Unified Tertiary Matriculation Examination (UTME) nationwide, candidates have affirmed that the conduct has so far been seamless and stress free. At the wake of the registration, the process was slow and scanty as a lot of centres had difficulty getting their access codes. Guardian
BUSINESS/ECONOMY
	African fintech Flutterwave gets $35 million, partners with WorldPay Africa-focused fintech firm Flutterwave on Tuesday announced a $35 million fundraising round and partnerships with WorldPay and Visa as it targets expansion in northern and Francophone Africa. The start-up, founded in 2016 by Nigerians and headquartered in... Reuters
	In Davos, Okonjo Iweala says Africa must invest in its youth to harvest the dividend Former Finance minister Ngozi Okonjo Iweala says Africa can reap a tremendous dividend from its youth bulge if governments in the continent will make the right investment in their youths to make them more productive. The former minister said the debt to GDP ratio in Africa is moving a little bit too high and heading to the territory that is uncomfortable Business Day
OTHERS
	Expert caution healthcare workers on handling cytotoxic drugs A Pharmacist, Mrs. Esther Samuel of the Department of Pharmacy, University of Ilorin Teaching Hospital (UIH), has cautioned healthcare workers in the country on effective handling of cytotoxic drugs for cancer patients. Samuel gave the advice on Thursday in Ilorin during her paper presentation at the monthly Grand Rounds of the UIH... Vanguardngr.com